
Overview

This standard is about creating an environment in which organisations can carry out inclusive and effective community development work. The standard involves managing internal structures and systems to ensure effective community development work. At the same time, the standard encourages community development practitioners to be outward looking to respond to community issues and needs. This standard relates to the tasks that need to be undertaken to raise awareness of community development within own organisation and to managing the relationships between the organisation and the communities with which it works.

This standard is relevant to those who manage relationships in community development and to all managers of community development organisations.

The community development standards are arranged in six key areas:

- One - Understand and practise community development
- Two - Understand and engage with communities
- Three - Group work and collective action
- Four - Collaboration and cross-sectoral working
- Five - Community learning for social change
- Six - Governance and organisational development

This standard is within Key Area Six.

Models and processes required for managing community development practice

- 6 how to advocate for community development practice at a strategic level in own organisation
- 7 how to measure the impact of community development on communities and organisations
- 8 how to facilitate individual and organisational change and development
- 9 approaches to managing conflict

Resources for managing community development practice

- 10 the value community development practice experience brings to a management role
- 11 how to source and access specialist advice and information relevant to improving organisational practices and structures
- 12 models for devolved decision-making and their suitability in different situations
- 13 the importance of critically reflecting on internal organisational practice as part of professional and organisational development

Values

Community development is underpinned by a set of values which distinguish it from other, sometimes related, activities in the community. These values are at the core of community development and underpin each of the standards. The values are;

- 1 Social justice and equality
- 2 Anti-discrimination
- 3 Community empowerment
- 4 Collective action
- 5 Working and learning together

The following examples illustrate how each of the community development values might inform practice in this standard. These statements are not part of assessment requirements.

- 1 creative thinking is applied to ensure inclusive approaches to problem solving
- 2 issues of discrimination raised by communities are listened to and acted upon
- 3 participatory decision-making processes are adopted which actively involve communities and organisations
- 4 the collective nature of community development is maintained in the face of targets relating to individuals
- 5 community members are motivated and supported to take the lead on building external relationships
